

Miss Botswana 2025 Bio - Ruth Thomas

Ruth Thomas crowned Miss Botswana 2025, is a 23 year-old trailblazer from Masunga whose journey is deeply rooted in faith, humility and purpose. Born and raised in Francistown Block 1 and 2, Ruth comes from a humble principled background that shaped her into the woman she is today. As the eldest daughter in her family, she developed strong leadership skills and a deep sense of responsibility at an early age.

Raised in a home guided by Christian values, Ruth credits her parents, especially her mother for instilling in her the importance of strong character and a Christ-led life. Her mother's sacrifices and unwavering support have been instrumental in Ruth's journey, while her entire family, including her grandparents, have offered emotional and financial support that she holds close to her heart. Her grandparents' belief that she was "born as an answer" continues to guide her path and fuel her determination.

Ruth holds a qualification in Clothing and Textile from Humana People to People under SPEDU and studied Beauty Basics through Clicks, where she serves as a Beauty Advisor. Her time in the beauty industry greatly inspired her Beauty With A Purpose project, The Beauty Movement, which focuses on redefining beauty and empowering women to see beauty as a personal choice rather than a fixed standard. She believes that society still struggles to fully grasp this concept and is passionate about initiating change in that space.

Becoming Miss Botswana has always been Ruth's dream and her crowning moment was not just a personal victory, it was the realization of a prayer and a manifestation for her faith. She believes God ordained her journey and that walking in faith was the reason her dream came true.

Ruth's advocacy is centered on empowering women and girls to recognize that they are wonderfully and fearfully made, each carrying immense value and purpose. She is committed to promoting the message that our differences are a form of liberation, not bondage. Through her reign, Ruth aims to create a society where women no longer question their worth to their appearance or background.

Her deep relationship with Jesus Christ has been the foundation of her confidence and strength. She openly shares that her success is a testament to God's faithfulness and she hopes her story becomes a beacon for others to believe in His promises.

As she prepares to represent Botswana at the 73rd Miss World, Ruth is determined to showcase the nation's essence from its warm hospitality and cultural pride to its exceptional beauty and depth. She aspires to be remembered as a woman of unwavering faith and humility, who made the impossible possible and inspired others to do the same.

Ruth Thomas stands as a beacon of purpose, resilience and divine grace, a young man on a mission to challenge beauty standards and ensure every woman feels seen, worthy and empowered.
